

Just One Day

Just One Day is a video written and produced by young people and focuses on a day in the life of a young woman. The story interweaves her inner thoughts and the reality of coming out at school. Intercut with this narrative are real life interviews with three young people who talk about their own coming out experiences.

“Just One Day, a video produced by young people for young people, is an invaluable resource for anyone who wants to work around issues of sexual diversity. It is accessible and entertaining and tackles complex issues in a way that will appeal to young people and generate discussion.”

“I love ‘Just One Day’ and fully endorse it as a powerful, realistic, accessible and useful teaching and health promotion resource. I will certainly be using it at a tertiary level with our pre-teacher trainees and I hope schools will use it with students.”

“The really strong message of ‘Just One Day’ is that just one supportive friend can make all the difference. I especially liked the girl angle...young lesbians are too often invisible and their needs are often neglected. Clearly the video is about the issues for both boys and girls but usually the boys issues are used to represent both – this is a refreshing change.”
